1. Plug the wireless adapter into your vehicle's USB port.
2. If your vehicle uses a USB-C connection, use the included USB-C adapter.
3. On your smartphone, connect to the car's original Bluetooth system as you normally would.
4. Ensure the adapter is securely connected to the USB port.
5. Pair your phone with the adapter's Bluetooth signal (usually named SmartBox-XXXX).
6. After a few seconds, it will automatically switch to Wi-Fi and launch Apple CarPlay or Android Auto.
7. That's it! You're now connected wirelessly

Please Note

- For Android users, some smartphones may require you to download the Android Auto app from the Play Store and enable it in your phone's settings before connecting.
- For iPhone users, ensure that Apple CarPlay is enabled in your settings and that Wi-Fi is turned on for a smooth wireless connection.
